LETTER FROM GARRARD.

GARRARD County, Ky., Feb. 17th. I know full well Mr. Editor, that you neither desire nor require another Garrard correspondent, whilst all the county news is so gracefully and graphically transmit-ted to your columns through the happy medium of "Clio's" gifted pen. And yet, this morning, I feel an irrepressible inclin-ation to thrust myself, for just this one time—into the magic circle of the Jour-NAL's correspondents, the entertaining, well-worded letter of which I read each week, with increasing interest and pleas-

A TRUE STORY.

BY MRS. EUGENIA DUNLAP POTTS.

"Really, sir, I am honored! But, sir, let me assure you that with every appreciation of a true gentleman's nonest love, I can and do tell you, "No." Let there be no more words

"Ah!" he exclaimed in bitter irony, "you think to treat me as you did that silly boy I met just now; but what was his petty offering compared with my mature affection. Be not disdainful. Ethel, but look upon me with the face that won my heart."

"You are a strange man, Mr. Hampton I have never been addressed in the imperious language you employ, and yet you are pleased to call it love. Be assured that if I have paused to listen to you it is because I owe you at least common courtesy after having been so unfortunate as to inspire you with more than an ordinary friendship. If you are sincere I thank you; have twice said-no." And she gracefully withdrew.
